

Alexander Crum Brown

Alexander Crum Brown was born on the 26 of March 1839.

Alexander Crum Brown was a rich man.

Alexander went to Mill Hill School in London then Alexander went to Royal high school in Edinburgh.

Alexander studied organic compounds (carbon compounds).

In 1864 he published an important paper on the "Theory of Isomeric Compounds"

Alexander becoming the first candidate on who the doctorate of science of London University.

Written by Rory Hands and Callum Thomson (S1), from Lossiemouth high school 29/9/11

